

Question 1 - Do YOU think we are collectively responsible for caring for people in need here in this Archdiocese? Why?

All should work together to assist.

Yes, we all need to pitch in to help

All of the above - everyone

all of them

Responsibility of everyone to share. Everyone working as a community together. Not one singular person or group

Yes, it is everyone's responsibility as we are all equally valuable members of the human family.

All of the above. For Governments it is their responsibility to enforce laws based on caring for others. Church - preach caring for others. Charities embody such teachings of the Church and Gov

Everyone should be responsible for caring for people in the archdiocese and it shouldn't be left up to the charities or bishops so everyone should play their own part.

Question 1 - Do YOU think we are collectively responsible for caring for people in need here in this Archdiocese? Why?

Yes, the government is best placed as they have power, money, and control. We need to initiate the response.

the responsibility should be shared between them all and us (schools) as well.

Yes, because God has created us to be brothers and sisters in everything. Responsibility of everyone rather than groups individually. Collective effort to help everyone. Care for each other together.

We believe we are all responsible, in our opinion the Government, the Church, and Charities should work together as one

They all work together in different areas to collectively help. It is everyone's responsibility!

It falls into each category, however the government should be responsible for Australian citizens.

Yes, it is important and it is everyone's responsibility to care for each other because we all have the same needs and no one should be living in bad conditions.

Yes, because we're thinking ahead to make a change no matter how small or big the issue. This allows us to get together collectively as God intended. Respecting the dignity as Jesus told us.

Question 1 - Do YOU think we are collectively responsible for caring for people in need here in this Archdiocese? Why?

We as Catholics have a responsibility to help care for people in need, and we should all play a part to helping people as that followers of God.

Large corporations have the ability to help on a large scale.

It is the responsibility of the government to provide more funding to help the homeless in the community

We think it is everyone's responsibility to help people collectively in our archdiocese. We also think everyone should do their part and help our brothers and sisters out.

The right thing to do...yes.important to work together. More people means more help. Different groups can bring different solutions. Collective effort to solve. Co-depedence. Stronger together.

Although we see it is a responsibility of all three, we need to see what we can also do as individuals. It shouldn't just be the responsibility of others but also of ourselves.

Responsibility of everyone because we are all equals.Government - all citizensChurch - mission is to help othersCharities - purpose and goal

It comes down to the collective community. Governments should provide a scaffold for charities to operate off of. We have to take action by considering that if we don't take action, who will?

Question 1 - Do YOU think we are collectively responsible for caring for people in need here in this Archdiocese? Why?

There are people in the community who may need help and we work together as a community to give them happiness and support and the life they deserve- as Jesus has demonstrated.

Everyone is responsible because it is our community. Because just like Jesus said "Love one another as i have loved you."

It is a responsibility of all three. Each should be taking separates roles in the promotion of the welfare of its people. Church & charity should take a direct approach, being the "hands" that serve.

If the Church was to start a brand-new social service agency under LifeLink, whom would it help and why?

Victims of Domestic Violence - for those who are more need of help. It is a very prevalent issue in Australian society. This may include helplines and websites. It would be important to show we care.

The agency would help people who are facing mental health issues, domestic violence etc. Agencies would provide psychologists and therapists. It is important to ensure the wellbeing for the next gen.

Mental health services for young people

The Aging Society, This charity can help elderly people settle down and adjust to a life without receiving a weekly/monthly pay which would normally get them through their day to day life.

This agency would help youth struggling with their mental health or any home problems. This place would provide people to talk to as well as accessible help for young people.

Support tertiary education - supporting the students going through University with funding, mental support (if needed), and an area of residence (if needed)

Homelessness, This Charity can provide basic needs like; Shelter, Food, Water, and Clothing for those whom need it and require it as they are less fortunate

The agency would help people affected by natural disasters such as floods, earthquakes, and heatwaves. To help, the agency would provide families with support so they can 'get back on their feet'.

If the Church was to start a brand-new social service agency under LifeLink, whom would it help and why?

If the Church was to start a brand new social service agency - it should assist women going through domestic violence and women and children who are experiencing hardship.

Emergency accommodation for women and children escaping domestic violence.

Collecting blankets for the homeless- to help them feel seen and have something to keep them warm during winter. It's important because it can decrease the risk of sickness within the homeless people.

Strengthen bonds in community as well as helping youth with anxiety and other mental health issues they are struggling with. It would bring young people in the community together.

Food shelter for the Hungry. Food is provided to anyone in need if they require food. It would help provide these people who require food with a meal for themselves or the family. Made portable too

Farmers Charity, This Charity can help Rural Farmland owners which their mental health and help with their farm so they can keep their business/life continuing

Help indigenous people overcome barriers Help disabled people building elevators and ramps. Help people in financial difficulty Helping people effected by war

These are ongoing issues which is never going to stop without doing something about it.

If the Church was to start a brand-new social service agency under LifeLink, whom would it help and why?

Domestic Violence - hygiene, place to stay, advice, psychologists, housing, lawyers for domestic violence, support for children, education. Equality, stopping the issue + repeat offenders

It could help kids at schools who are less fortunate. It would allow kids to see more success at school when their needs are met such as having appropriate uniform and stationary.

This would also help parents whose children are suffering with mental health to provide accessible assistance to overcome mental health struggles.

A service to provide for low-income families as the cost of living rises. To provide a place where people in similar circumstances can have access to basic necessities and equal opportunities.

More mental health support - teenager/young adults. More support in State housing - support for adults and children - teaching them how to re-enter society. Help kids with unreliable parents.

Domestic Violence Support - especially for women. Long term solutions.

Refuges that take women and children into homes to look after victims of domestic violence. Housing co-ops that allow housing for homeless. This is important because every person deserves to be helped

A targeted youth supports service, supported by youth leaders & mentors, specific for mental health. Another would be a centre for domestic violence support and care. Support dog service for support.

If the Church was to start a brand-new social service agency under LifeLink, whom would it help and why?

People with addictions- People who are in need of help to break their cycle of addiction and to get on the right path again. It can also help them to give them a fresh start at life.

The Church could start a new social service agency working closely with migrants. The agency could provide volunteers who advocate for migrants and families. Translation services; language and communit

We would help students who cant afford supplies for education, and families who need financial support. Such as hosting breakfast clubs.

Homeless and jobless people. Gives them a new chance of life and advice on what jobs would benefit them. It's important because we are giving people new chances, but also help them to help others.

Homeless people who are obviously in need of food and shelter. This should not be a short term, but leading to long-term solutions

Food truck service for homeless and needy - one that roves around the streets to help and feed.

Elderly- Helps connect people with the elderly and it also breaks the loneliness with people who may not have family that comes and help them

A social service for ppl who are displaced, eg. Refugees from war torn countries.

If the Church was to start a brand-new social service agency under LifeLink, whom would it help and why?

CEWA Run Support Services from Schools - Supporting CSL throughout education. Schools CSL run services throughout the community. Support worker between lots of schools to assist students serve.

An agency that addresses homelessness that has many centres through cities that provides people with basic needs and helps them become independent again through education and help to find employment.

Supporting newly arrived migrants or asylum seekers. They could provide support and assistance to families getting settled into a new culture and new way of life e.g. education, work, home also an agency could help students and families struggling to pay for education and support for tutoring and such.

Social enterprise assistance: Helping disadvantaged people find their place in the workforce and their Vocation in society; spiritual and career advisory services.

Mental health- People struggling with mental health can have someone to talk to and are able to break their silence

🤔 Charity for people who are sick and cant afford treatments/medicine

More assistance for assault victims.

If the Church was to start a brand-new social service agency under LifeLink, whom would it help and why?

Organisation that will provide assistance to get cheap housing spread through the community surrounding the basepoint. e.g. payment for rent.

parents that need help- families that are struggling financially or mentally can get the help that they need and LifeLink is a great way to help them through their tough times

parents that need help- families that are struggling financially or mentally can get the help that they need and LifeLink is a great way to help them through their tough times

Facing loneliness in an aging population. Looking after the elderly in your community who may be facing isolation in their final years of life. Providing a support system that can uphold integrity.

A multifaceted agency for youth (after or outside of schooling) that provided support in the areas of cost of living, mental health, studying and working challenges. Could be led by catholic youth.

parents that need help- families that are struggling financially or mentally can get the help that they need and LifeLink is a great way to help them through their tough times

if people could sign up to the agency with their friends. For example if the agency had a minimum sign up number of 2 it would motivate people to sign up.

Fun activity type service e.g. fates, carnivals, outdoor venuesPromoting on Social Media Showing targets needing to be raisedCompetition between groups

If the Church was to start a brand-new social service agency under LifeLink, whom would it help and why?

Get a group of people or friends who are passionate about it. Also making the experience more interactive, so young people can connect with the root of the problem and see the change they are making:)

What would encourage you and your fellow students to actually volunteer, donate to or work at a Church social service agency?

No one is motivated to do it by themselves. Doing it with friends and seeing the benefits of the work will inspire others to get involved. Seeing people you look up to doing it will also inspire people

The ability to see the end product of where the work all converges to, seeing a difference in the world, as well as knowing who you are actually helping.

Participate in charity event with peers. For example, All going to a charity event and all volunteering together would make it more enjoyable :)

Providing transport for youth who want to volunteer.

A lot of the time, it can be hard to find volunteer positions as an underaged student. Having a website or platform that would allow students to find opportunities would be useful.

If it became part of the religion course and your religion class could go out and volunteer together, it could inspire the students to continue it in their lives. It is also hard to do things with age

More engagement and interaction

Activating a youth parish group with diverse and inclusive programs.

What would encourage you and your fellow students to actually volunteer, donate to or work at a Church social service agency?

More Advertising within the community

Options to volunteer for different social agencies, so you enjoy your service because you believe it is meaningful and helpful to your service. Engaging seminars from people that who are effected.

If what we are doing has a direct positive impact in our close community - we can see how it is helping people in person - specific people. We can go to nearby shelters to gain first had experience.

To see a real life example of the problem and how it affects people and how you can help them To see who you're donating too and what the donations are doing to help the families in need.

It would be important to intergrate it into courses at schools, like a cooking class who can make a batch of food for homeless once or a couple times a term.

Instead of in school RE lessons, we have an activity based volunteer session externally

Working with other young people would encourage students to volunteer and get involved as often students find that they are the only young person volunteering in a group of adults.

Free food and transport to the activity.Knowing people there, not feeling alone.Knowing the people your helping - knowing their story.Being offered more opportunities to help - eg: in schools.

What would encourage you and your fellow students to actually volunteer, donate to or work at a Church social service agency?

Having some friends to do it with will help people get motivated because nobody wants to do anything by themselves and having someone with you will help out immensely.

Create a Buddy system to encourage youth to volunteer with friends. It's easier when you have a friend.

People coming together to have fun, socialise and etc. Group based activities where people can volunteer in their own comfort and help. Volunteering can get the sense of feeling good about yourself.

having a range of agencies to sign up for e.g. cook ups, sports club,

More interactive so that young people can do it together and its 'fun'. Also being able to see the effects of the help, being in touch with the people you are helping.

Learning about the problem first. Connecting with it on a personal level so they are encouraged to participate. Having a person come and speak to students.

Offering information about what volunteering entails.

Ensuring there is safety aspect. Possibly doing it with a friend. Promoting the learning aspects and the experience you could gain for your career and such.

What would encourage you and your fellow students to actually volunteer, donate to or work at a Church social service agency?

- Seeing the affects - possibly speakers who come to schools to engage students with a particular issue. - Advertise on social media platforms relevant to young people today.

- activities that make you feel involved such as cooking for the homeless- people of similar ages to make friends- seeing people benefit from how you help- organised in a familiar environment someone who has lived that experience could come and speak to the students about it. students knowing where the money is going might encourage them to donate. making sandwiches for struggling families

People are more likely to participate when they have a connection to the agency. Offer a variety of agencies to help

Different year groups have different motivations to do things so we should encourage different people in different ways because not everyone is motivated by one certain topic or issue.

People feel they will be made fun of If they volunteer. Explain to people how meaningful and important it can be to. Choose flexible hours of service so people want to do it.

Work with a team of like-minded students to continue some meaningful work.

Guest speakers to come out schools and let students know how they can help. Forums to show how young people can help - some young don't know how they can get involved or what agencies are out there.

What would encourage you and your fellow students to actually volunteer, donate to or work at a Church social service agency?

Doing things that are relevant and important to ourselves, that we enjoy doing can encourage us to help people who matter to us.

More opportunities to find the locations and agencies where they can volunteer. Provides details of where and when there are opportunities. i.e. a volunteer marketplace.

Similar to Telethon, engaging "popular" people and "celebrities. Festivals Sporting events - colour run free food.

Focus on 7s with a new norm of a "generous heart". Programs that coincide with schooling, funding for camps and service opportunities, to slowly build service culture - CEWA help schools.

- Education - Teaching HOW young people can help and to direct passions on a certain topic.
- Engagement and interaction from outside providers to schools possibly doing it through the school and available for all ages and times, in case people can only volunteer after work and such.

Opportunity to attend volunteer activities with school friends. Seeing the outcome of where donations are going.

What would encourage you and your fellow students to actually volunteer, donate to or work at a Church social service agency?

holy cross does a life link sleep out to experience what it is like to be homeless where they sleep on the street in the cold for a few nights.

Transport Provided, community service as a certificate. And reward system, having better advertisement.

Being able to immerse ourselves in the issue (experiencing homelessness/visiting Shopfront) would help more people to connect with the issues. E.g. excursions.

Demonstrating through experience that volunteering can be fun - change perspectives. We can go in groups with friends. Earn service hours. Simple, and short work - so it is easy and doesn't stop study

More personal stories shared during assemblies of people who have went through the hardships so that people have a knowledge on who and how to help

Certain people doing certain activities based on your qualifications so you feel you are needed and you can see the end result.

student lead fundraisers

Knowledge that the contribution will actually be effective and lead to a better result in the community. Tackling community issues with friends motivates more people in the community to get involved.

What would encourage you and your fellow students to actually volunteer, donate to or work at a Church social service agency?

Encouraging empathy and school values as a driving force to create change - influence and empower students to do great things in life.

In a cashless society, more opportunities to donate digitally - tap and go's, round-ups at canteens.

Schools could have a day where students are encouraged to help and volunteer at charities and places like Shopfront as a Christian Service Learning.

goals to work towards, purposeful actions, improve understanding of issues, real stories or experiences to connect to, engaging activities in schools, lead by example

Getting other students to discuss their experiences. Guest speakers from agencies to inform students, service learning opportunities. Getting more agencies to embrace student volunteers (18 YO restri

Teachers that are passionate about these causes should be leaders/ambassadors in their schools.

It could help your career pathway. e.g. if you are going to become a doctor, go and work in a hospital. If it could go on your resume that would be encouraging.

Building relationships with who you will be helping, this can lead to an added sense of comfort and safety.

What would encourage you and your fellow students to actually volunteer, donate to or work at a Church social service agency?

Students could see where their money goes and this is important so people really see how they help in a big way from a donation.